(article from The Mississippi Press Register, 1900)
 Some 115 years after Frederick Delmas Cronier was discharged from the Union Army, his grave has a government provided headstone.

The Civil War veteran is buried in the Cronier family cemetery in the Escatawpa-area where he and his wife settled in the Wolf Ridge vicinity after their marriage in 1869. Cronier, according to Allen Cronier of Moss Point, logged for many years on the Escatawpa River.

Cronier and wife, the former Virginia Alabama Cunningham, had 11 children. James Fernando "Uncle Mike" Cronier of 2415 Tyler Ave., Pascagoula, is the only living offspring of the Civil War veteran. He has the original discharge certificate issued to his father Dec. 18, 1865, in New Orleans.

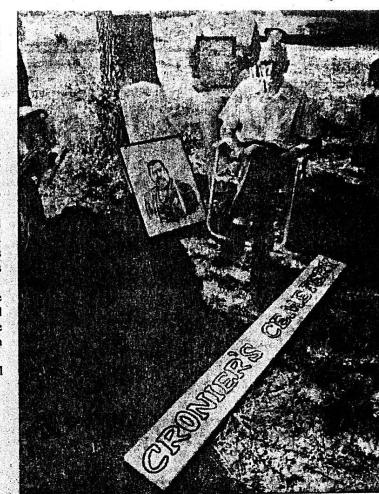

According to Allen Cronier, great-grandson of the deceased veteran, Cronier was born Nov. 18, 1848, in Pass Christian. When he was 13 years old, he was sent to New Orleans to help relatives suffering from yellow fever which claimed the life of his 19-year-old sister who went to New Orleans with him.

When Delmas Cronier became ill, his descendant said, the First Regiment, Company C, Louisiana Cavalry took him in and nursed him back to health. He joined the Union Army in the Civil War as a bugler but later was issued arms and fought in the Battle of Vicksburg.

Two of his brothers, Charles and Green, fought in the Civil War on the side of the Confederate States of America.

According to a family story, Delmas Cronier came home to his parents wearing a Union Army uniform. His partially blind father thought he was a yankee and would have shot him if his wife had not knocked the gun out of his hands.

Allen Cronier has done extensive family research and has gathered family history and information on such Gulf Coast families as the Croniers, Cunninghams, Ladniers, Cuevases, Kennedys, Dickensens, Colemans, Storks, Cumbeasts and others.

HEADSTONE MARKS GRAVE: A military headstone obtained through the Veterans Administration now marks the grave of Frederick Delmas Cronier, a Union Army veteran of the Civil War. The veteran's only living son (photo 1980), James Fernando "Uncle Mike" Cronier of Pascagoula, rests on the site in the Escatawpa area cemetery beside a portrait of his father and the headstone. "Uncle Mike's" wife holds the original discharge order issued when the veteran was discharged in 1865.

STILL COOKING — Turning 100 years old has not stopped Essie Park of Ocean Springs from living an independent lifestyle that includes cooking three meals a day for herself and those in need. A native of the Wade-Hurley area, the former Essie Coleman has lived in Ocean Springs for nearly 75 years.

OCEAN SPRINGS — For the past century, Essie Jane Coleman Park says she has tried to live her life the way it should be — serving others and keeping busy. "I thank the Lord for having taken care of me. He's with me every day," Mrs. Park said. "I try to serve Him the best I can. I try to live my life by the Bible — His word — and that's it."

A native of the Wade-Hurley area, Mrs. Park marked her 100th birthday on Feb. 9 in Ocean Springs, the town she has called home for most of her life. Here she raised a large family, made friends and worked in the community.

As a centenarian, her resourceful, independent spirit and willingness to help others has not diminished, family members say.

"She never gives up and is always optimistic, always positive. She is still cooking and sending food to different ones. She lives by the Golden Rule," her daughter, Marilyn Davis of Pascagoula, said. "She has always loved to help people."

Times have changed since Mrs. Park's early life around Wade as the daughter of the late Sidney Delmas and Catherine Jane Kennedy Coleman. She says she never would have imagined many of the inventions and innovations she saw over the years. "I never could have believed that the world would have progressed this far," she said.

Essie Coleman married John Park, a native of Analong, Ireland, in 1917 and spent the first years of their marriage in Moss Point. In 1919, they settled in Fontainebleau and several years later moved to a woodframe home near the present site of Magnolia Park School in Ocean Springs. The Parks lived at several locations in town until they settled on Cox Avenue about 1941.

Mrs. Park was mother to six children and three stepchildren and helped raise several nieces and nephews and a young Biloxi girl, who was left motherless. "She always had a houseful," Mrs. Davis said. Other surviving children are Donald Park of Ocean Springs and Dorothy Webb of Washington State. Mrs. Park also has 17 grandchildren, 29 great-grandchildren, 21 great-greatgrandchildren and one great-great-great grandchild.

"We're in our sixth generation," she says proudly.

John Park, a city alderman in the 1950s, was away at sea much of his life. He died in 1970.

"Husband was gone an awful lot and I had to rely on myself. I think this is what helped me take care of myself," Mrs. Park said.

During World War II, Park was working aboard a United Fruit Company vessel, which was taken over by the Navy as a supply boat. Because of his experience, Park was made a Lt. Commander in the Merchant Marine. After the war, he went back to United Fruit and was chief engineer until he retired.

"I had my husband and three sons in the war at the same time," she said.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Park was volunteering as one of the first grey ladies on the Coast.

"I was the first nurses aid from Ocean Springs. I took a course at Biloxi Hospital on the beach. We caught the bus at 6 a.m. and stayed until 2 p.m. and worked. We did everything but give medicine. It was during the war and there was a shortage of nurses. I enjoyed every minute of it," she said.

After the war, Mrs. Park opened a restaurant for a brief time in the Girot Building on Washington Avenue.

Mrs. Park also volunteered for years at the Veterans Administration Center and Villa Maria Apartments in Ocean Springs until changes in her eyesight prevented her from driving five years ago. She also worked at the polls during elections for 45 years. Mrs. Park is an honorary member of the Firemen's Auxiliary and a charter member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

She regularly attends St. Paul United Methodist Church, where her family entertained at a 100th birthday reception on Sunday, Feb. 9. Since she was the first person in Ocean Springs to turn 100 during the city's Centennial year, a special presentation was made to her by the Centennial Commission.

Among the happy times in Ocean Springs Mrs. Park remembers are the days she would fish with friends on the banks of Fort Bayou for bull minnows. She would sell the bull minnows and give the money to the church.

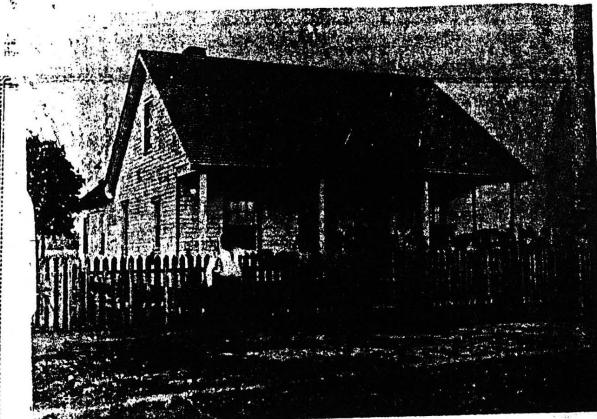

Her fishing days are memories, but each spring Mrs. Park still tends to the flower and vegetable garden by her home and cooks three meals a day. Often she shares these with shut-ins and friends.

But twice a week, she enjoys eating out with her children and especially a weekly shopping excursion to local malls with her daughter, Marilyn.

This "good food and hard work," Mrs. Park said, may be the secret to her long life.

"I guess the Lord has some unfinished work for me," she said.

A GOOD PLACE
To Meet Your Friends

Sid Davis Coleman, born Aug. 5, 1862 (second from right) with wife, Catherine Irene Kennedy Coleman and family. At one time they operated the old folks home (County Home) in Hurley known at that time as the "Poor House".

John Cunningham, Escatawpa, MS, birth Jan. 4, 1815, died Nov. 27, 1904, was the father of Virginia Alabama Cunningham Cronier.

Special thanks to Allen Cronier, who provided The Bulletin with the family history and pictures on this page. Hard work and expense go into the research of Genealogy.

Anyone having family history with dates, news articles and pictures for use in the Genealogy Column, submit to The Bulletin, P.O. Box 367, Hurley, MS 39555 or call 588-6784.

Frederick Delmas Cronier, Escatawpa, (Wolf Ridge area) born Nov. 18, 1848 with wife, Virginia Alabama Cunningham Cronier and children, James Fernando Cronier and Ellen Eurinnie Cronier Bullock.
